Robin Hood

It was a quiet night in Sherwood village. Yet someone was creeping through the dark... From his bedroom window, Jack Fletcher watched the shadowy figure flit from roof to roof. Who could it be? "It's Robin Hood," he whispered quietly. Jack longed to meet Robin Hood - the famous outlaw who robbed from the rich and gave to the poor.

Later that night, Robin Hood left purses by the villagers' doors, filled with glittering golden coins. But the next day, the Sheriff of Nottingham rode into the village. "Give me your money, if you don't I'll have you arrested."

The king was overseas so the bossy Sheriff thought he could do what he wanted. Jack hated the Sheriff of Nottingham. When no one was looking he slowly scooped up some horse dung and threw it SPLAT in his face. The sheriff went red with rage! "Run Jack!" cried Jack's father.
